Helpful Hints

IDS 101 – First Year Experience is recommended for all incoming students. This one-credit course provides orientation to the college.

Career and Transfer Outlook

- UMass Lowell requires the Lab Science Option for the Liberal Arts and Science Degree: one science course must be a lab science and can be a non-lab science.
- UMass Lowell requires a one semester survey of British Literature while Salem State requires two literature courses from different time periods (a two semester sequence such as, American Literature I and II or World Literature I and II).
- UMass Lowell requires four semesters of a World Languages for Literature majors, so students planning to transfer to UMass Lowell are encouraged to complete at least two semesters of the same language as electives before transferring. Salem State does not have a language requirement for English majors.
